Au générique des nominations 2017 du Magritte des Meilleurs décors, deux valeurs sûres et un nouveau venu.

C'est peu de dire que Véronique Sacrez est une valeur sûre en matière de décors de cinéma, puisqu'elle a déjà été primée à deux reprises aux Magritte pour son travail sur Quartier lointain de Sam Garbarski en 2012, et sur Tango Libre de Frédéric Fonteyne en 2014. Fidèle chef décoratrice de Frédéric Fonteyne et Sam Garbarski (elle l'a accompagné dernièrement pour Bye Bye Germany, qui sera dévoilé à Berlin dans quelques semaines), elle prête l'année dernière ses talents au réalisateur d'origine vietnamienne Thanh Anh Hung pour son ambitieux projet, Eternité, une fresque familiale impressionniste qui se déroule sur près d'un siècle. Son travail, charnel et pictural, accompagne les héroïnes du film au fil des époques. Véronique Sacrez était également éligible pour son travail sur Diamant Noir de Arthur Harari.
